Congresswoman Grace Flores Napolitano is a powerful advocate for Southern California on water resources, transportation and power generation, and dedicates considerable energy to mental health issues. The daughter of a Mexican immigrant who raised two children on a shoestring budget, Napolitano married at 18 and had five children by 23. She launched her first political campaign for city council where she served for seven years, two of them as mayor, before moving up to the California Legislature. Congresswoman Napolitano is currently serving her ninth term representing California's 32nd District, where she is the founder and Chair of the Congressional Mental Health Caucus, serves on the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee and is the Ranking Member on the Subcommittee on Water Resources and Environment.
